

ACTRESS, ON NIGHT OF TAYLOR DEATH, PHONED ABOUT TROUBLE

the most winning personalities I ever knew. He was liked by everybody, and when he mysteriously disappeared his absence created a sensation.

"Afterward we commenced to get reports that Tanner had changed his name to Taylor and was engaged in film work in Los Angeles. Naturally, when I came out here I wanted to see him. I wrote him a letter telling him I was and asking for an appointment to see him if he cared to. He replied, setting a date for the meeting. I could not keep it because of a trip already planned to Catalina, but when I returned I called him over the telephone and he invited me to the studio."

"When I saw him I walked forward and said 'Hello, Pete, don't you remember me?' He shook his head and said he did not. Then I asked him if he didn't remember the visits he made at our resort, the yacht club of which he was a member and several other incidents that would fix the time and place. He denied them all."

"Well, I knew then that he didn't want to remember me—that he didn't want to talk about the past and started to leave. He was asked if I didn't want to look over the lot. I assented and he took me all over the studio and the lot and in all that time the only admission he made that would reveal his identity was in regard to his daughter."

"Knew Him As 'Tanner.'"
"He said that he heard from her quite often, but refused to discuss anything about her in relation to his past. It was most strange. I knew the man instantly as 'Pete Tanner,' and knew that he knew me. But he refused to recognize me. After my visit I wrote Mr. Tanner a letter and told her about it. Naturally, when I learned of his death I wired her."

Manning said that Miss Graham had been questioned as to the possibility of an enemy of Taylor's acquired in the past which might account for the strange manner in which he left his wife and who she said she knew him. She said that so far as she or any of Taylor's old friends knew he did not have an enemy in the world."

FILM ACTOR NAMED IN DIVORCE SCANDAL

Spottiswoode Aitken's Wife Claims He Urged Her to Extort Money.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Starting allegations to the effect that her husband coerced her into keeping company with a wealthy Santa Barbara man for the purpose of afterward extorting money from him were contained in a cross-complaint filed today by Mrs. Marion (Avis) Spottiswoode-Aitken to the suit for divorce filed about six weeks ago by Francis Spottiswoode-Aitken, motion picture actor.

In his complaint, Spottiswoode-Aitken declared his wife's continued association with Theodore Wilson caused him mental suffering. In her cross-complaint she alleged that her husband told her she might go with Wilson all she wanted to and that he would sue for divorce.

She expressed the belief that his alleged statement was made for the purpose of inducing her to associate with Wilson that he might have grounds for divorce.

Popular Government Must Be Preserved, Says Hearst

Here are two letters from William Randolph Hearst concerning political conditions, enunciating again his belief in popular government and the need for a return to the principles of Jefferson and Lincoln:

February 19, 1922.

Mr. M. H. Hoover,
Secretary—THE POLITICAL UNION,
Room 51—86 State street, Albany, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I read with much interest and enjoyment the discussion between yourself and Assemblyman Charles H. Betts. Both your letter and yours were most ably written and expressed your widely divergent views very cleverly. Of course, I agree with you.

The fundamental principle of American government is POPULAR government. Representative government is merely a more or less successful method of obtaining popular government. It is subject under the Constitution to any kind of modification that circumstances render necessary.

Whenever representative government fails to secure popular government it fails as a method and should be replaced by a method that WILL secure popular government.

Democracy, as we all know, comes from two Greek words meaning the power of the people. In a democracy the power of government rests with the people.

Representative government is merely government by proxy, government by power of attorney. It is government by delegated powers.

A citizen has the right to conduct his own private business or he has the right to give an agent a power of attorney to conduct it for him. And if he finds that agent is corruptly or incompetently using that power of attorney he has the right to revoke the power of attorney or so modify it as to compel the agent to follow the instructions given him by the citizen, or to submit to the citizen any plan of action for his approval before proceeding with it.

The citizen has the same right in public affairs. He can delegate his power of government to an agent or representative, but if he finds that that power of government is being corruptly or incompetently employed he can so modify the delegated powers that the representative will be compelled to heed the instructions of the citizen—which is the initiative; or will be compelled to refer matters of importance to the citizen's formal approval—which is the referendum.

That is government with "the consent of the governed."

The immortal Lincoln's ideal of American government was a government "of the people, by the people, for the people"—not merely FOR the people, which is representative government at its best, but government OF the people, and BY the people; which means nothing less than what Lincoln said—OF and BY the people.

I agree with Assemblyman Betts in one respect:

I have much more confidence in the wisdom and the patriotism of the Fathers than I have in the hysteria and noise of their sons.

That is why I prefer the ideals of Abraham Lincoln to the utterances of Assemblyman Betts.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

February 20, 1922.

Mr. E. T. O'Loughlin,
Brooklyn Section, EVENING JOURNAL,
New York City.

Dear Mr. O'Loughlin:

Will you kindly thank the ladies who were kind enough to send the record of a very complimentary vote taken at a meeting under the auspices of the League of Women Voters in Brooklyn?

I am naturally very much gratified by this courtesy, although I hardly feel I am any longer in politics and entitled to be considered a candidate for office.

Nevertheless, a man who is in journalism is in a sense in public life, and I look upon this ballot as a very generous recognition indeed of my efforts to be of some public service.

It is a matter of special gratification to me to receive this kindly recognition from the women citizens, because I know their ideals are high and their objects in politics very largely those which I am striving to assist in achieving.

Better social conditions are as important and, in fact, more important that bettered political conditions. They are more important because with better social and educational conditions, better economic and ethical conditions, will naturally come the improvement in political conditions.

Good government is the result of good citizenship, and the activity of women in politics surely makes for better citizenship.

I advocated woman suffrage for so many years, not merely to please the women, not merely to give them what was their undeniable right, but because I was sure that their influence and activity in politics would tend to remedy many political evils at the very root of the evil; because their higher ideals and their finer sensibilities would lead them to cure not merely the symptoms but the fundamental cause of the trouble.

I think that women in politics have fully realized and justified all that their supporters believed and claimed for them, and I shall be very happy, therefore, if I shall be able to deserve in my advocacies the compliment which the meeting under the auspices of the League of Women Voters paid me.

Very sincerely yours,
WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

SIMS' CHANCES FOR PROMOTION VANISH

Admiral Object of National Ridicule Now in Belief of High Officials.

The ridicule to which Rear Admiral William S. Sims has been subjected following disclosure of his scheme to attain the rank of full admiral, has made it impossible for him ever to attain that station.

This was the privately expressed opinion of many high officials of the navy yesterday. The thought of Sims, who never served under fire, aspiring to a rank filled only by Farragut, Porter and Dewey, was one, they said, that could not be taken seriously.

That this belief is shared by Secretary Denby was indicated when he let it be known that he contemplates taking no action in the case. With an ill-concealed smile, he declared that he did not regard Sims' activities as calling for any official action by himself or the department.

There was an entirely different attitude throughout the Navy Department and in other official circles. Whereas, Friday Sims' scheme was denounced in rounded terms, yesterday there was more of a disposition to treat it, because of its obvious impossibility, as a joke. It was privately said that the exposure had done more to diminish what remains of Sims' navy prestige than did his ill-timed speeches in England, for which he was publicly censured by the Navy Department.

It developed that Sims' violation of Article 95 of the Navy Department regulations is only a potential one. The article prohibits naval officers from seeking special legislation from Congress, but under the language of the article Sims could not be proceeded against until he had actually gone to Congress or a committee of Congress for a special act creating him a full admiral.

ABSENCE OF PREVON BLOCKS TRIAL PLAN

Brady to Decide Soon What Course He Will Pursue in Arbuckle Case.

By International News Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 25.—Inability of the State to obtain the return of Zey Prevon, missing star witness, from New Orleans to testify in the third trial of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle for manslaughter, forced a change in the plans of Attorney Brady.

The comedian was tried the first time on a police court holding. The second time he was tried on a grand jury indictment, and it had been planned to proceed with the third trial on the indictment.

However, to enable the testimony of Miss Prevon at the police court hearing to be read to the jury, it will be necessary to try Arbuckle on that holding. District Attorney Brady will determine this matter early next week.

In real life Mrs. Boas was Faith Hope Haas, but on the screen she discards her last name and the bride and bridegroom will make their home in Los Angeles.

Sales Tax in Canada Doesn't Affect Sugar Price, Inquiry Reveals

The following dispatch gives the results of a special investigation now being made for the Times in Canada, the aim being to determine just how much the Canadian sales tax adds to the cost of living:

By EDWIN J. CLAPP.

MONTREAL, Feb. 25.—Today I set out to confirm the sugar statement made in the signed protest of twenty-three members of the agricultural bloc in the House at Washington this week. They said that the Canadian sales tax is responsible for the considerable difference in cost of living between Canada and the United States.

The specific instance given in the bloc's protest was that in January sugar was costing 6 cents a pound in the United States and 10 cents in Canada, the spread being due to the effect of the sales tax, which Canada has and we have not.

SUGAR PRICE EXPLAINED.

I put the question to H. C. Beatty, secretary of the Canadian Wholesale Grocers' Association. He said:

"Your agricultural bloc men are misinformed. In the first place, any difference of 4 cents between your sugar prices and ours is quite abnormal."

"I wonder on what day in January it could have been. The normal spread is only half that much. Today, for example, the wholesale price of sugar in New York is $5.10 a hundred pounds, and in Montreal $6.90, the spread being under 2 cents a pound."

"The sales tax has nothing to do with this price difference, for the simple reason that sugar is one of the many commodities exempted from our sales tax."

"Then, what is the reason why sugar is 2 cents higher here than in the States?"

"Why, the same reason that makes commodities in general higher here than in your country. It costs us more to get our raw material and our customs duty is higher. We do not manufacture on your vast scale, and so cannot reach the low manufacturing costs of big American plants."

BUY SUGAR IN NEW YORK.

"Today, with the St. Lawrence closed by ice, we must buy our raw sugar in New York. Then we pay 30 cents a hundred pounds freight and a duty of $1.69, which is 9 cents higher than the American duty. Then we have a further loss of 10 cents a hundred pounds because our money is depreciated."

"These items account for a good fraction of our extra cost of 2 cents a pound. The balance, as I told you, is due to the fact that your refineries are so much larger than ours."

"You also have more refineries than Canada; you have at least a score. We have one beet sugar refinery; you have goodness knows how many."

"Then you are quite sure," I said, "that the sales tax has not affected the price of sugar in Canada?"

"How in the world could it?" was the reply. "So far as sugar is concerned, the sales tax does not exist."

N. Y. Jewelry Salesman

Loses $50,000 in Gems

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 25.—The theft of jewelry valued at $50,000 from his room in the Hotel Statler here was reported to the police tonight by Lew Kane, thirty years old, of the Bronx, New York city.

Kane, employed by Michael Levy, wholesale jeweler, of 9 Maiden Lane, New York, told the police that he left the trinkets locked in his trunk while he went to a vaudeville show. When he returned, he said, the trunk had been broken open and the jewelry stolen.

Kane did not know if the jewelry was insured.

knew rich men, and they told him what would happen in Wall Street. Each woman gave him all her money to invest. He still has it; they have nothing. Ladies, write this on your tablets: Men cheat women. No honest man will advise anything but safe, conservative investment to any woman unless he supplies the money. Even wise men, with good intentions, advise wrongly. The late J. P. Morgan, dressed in white linen, cooking pancakes on the first electric stove, said once:

"You want to make money—buy General Electric; it is going to 150." It was then 112. It did go to 150 and higher, but first it went to 20. When you get a perfectly sincere tip to buy, from a "Great Financier," sell at once, and you will usually make money."

Harvard biologists are studying and measuring life and death with plants. You can study yourself usefully. When you are young your chest sticks out, your abdomen sticks in. As you get older, the chest sinks in, the other sticks out. Fight off that process by wise eating and exercise, and you have done more than any doctor can do for you.

What happens to chest and abdomen happens also to the head. A baby has a big forehead, small jaw. As it grows old the jaw gets bigger, the forehead seems to get smaller. In a gorilla the change is more startling than in man. At birth a gorilla looks so human you'd almost adopt it. Two years later it is a huge-jawed monstrosity. Watch yourself.

You need not be old before ninety-five if you will it so, barring accidents.

PACT RATIFICATION FACES LONG DELAY

"Irreconcilables" in Senate Serve Notice Debate Will Be Lengthy.

By J. BART CAMPBELL.

By International News Service.
Ratification of the armament conference treaties is threatened with indefinite delay.

Despite the favorable action yesterday of a sweeping majority of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in ordering three of the pacts reported to the Senate, the little group of Republican and Democratic "irreconcilables" opposed to ratification declared their intention to debate all of the treaties "at considerable length."

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, charged that it "was unquestionably the purpose of the opponents of the treaties to delay ratification by engaging in open filibustering tactics."

BONUS ADVOCATES GROPPING FOR PLAN

be utilized to help meet the compensation payments.

The Republican members of the committee will meet again on Tuesday to hear any reports that may have come from the White House, in the meantime and to make another attempt to solve the problem that has been causing them all kinds of trouble during the past three sessions of Congress.

A petition was presented last night to Chairman Fordney by 50 members of the House demanding immediate passage of the bonus bill, payment of the bonus to start by October 1, 1922, and use of the interest payments of the foreign debt to cover the cash payments.

The petition originated with Congressman Frear, Republican, Wisconsin, who has fought the sales tax. He quoted Congressman Longworth, Republican, Ohio, as authority for a statement when British bonds are received by July they can be used with approval of the President to finance the bonus. This would facilitate cash payments to the soldiers.

Petition to Fordney.
In the petition to Fordney it is stated:

"Your action on yesterday, supported by members of the subcommittee, in discarding any sales tax on the bonus bill will receive the hearty support of members of Congress generally. We believe the subcommittee vote of seven to two against such tax is a close index of House sentiment on the subject. A sales tax would penalize every ex-soldier and compel him to pay toward his own meager bonus. Nine hundred thousand jobless ex-soldiers would be obliged immediately to pay consumption taxes under any sales tax law."

"A proposed sales tax would shift the greater part of a half-billion dollar tax burden onto ninety per cent of the people who only now make a bare living. A sales tax law swept the conservative party out of power last December in Canada and it would do some sweeping here next fall, if passed."

"No sales tax law could get through the House and Senate in less than ninety days—if passed at all. Ninety days more would be required to secure a clerical force to put the law in operation, thus taking until September or October of this year."

"Congressman Longworth is authority for the statement that when British bonds are received in June or July, next, these can be used with approval of the President to finance the bonus, or several months before any sales tax funds would be available."

"Semi-annual interest on this debt amounting to $125,000,000 has been voted on British budget and is under stood will be collectible by June 1, next."

"The use of bonds will remove a grossly unjust tax proposal, prevent political overturning of Congress and will be just to the ex-soldiers who saved for us these foreign debts. The bonus should be passed without any obnoxious tax and should be passed without delay. We are with you on this proposition."

Doctor at 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts And Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 1892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a simple vegetable compound for constipation—So safe thousands give it to babes in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man is in the 83rd year of his age, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that only time can teach him. The basis of treating sickness has not changed since I left Medical College in 1875, nor since I placed on the market the laxative prescription I had used in my practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Recently new medicines have been brought out for constipation that contain calomel, which is mercury, salts of various kinds, minerals, and coal tar. These are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the babe in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.
